REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the closest prior art to Beane et al (US 5453293) and Pearlstein et al (US 3754939) in combination with the also cited art to Boecker et al (US 562447) and Wilks (US 3926570) provides the suggestion to make conductive particles using a plating bath that contains palladium chloride, hydrochloric acid and a reducing agent to coat a metal such as nickel onto the particles. See the Office Action of May 24, 2007, paragraphs 4 and 5. However, the references themselves provide no indication of what porosity is provided or desired in the applied coating on the surface of the particles (while Beane providing a porous coating made from the coated particles at column 11, line 65 through column 12, line 5, this actually refers to the porosity of the coated article made using the particles, note "22" refers to article, not the coating on the particles; and Pearlstein indicating that a "less porous" deposit is formed (column 1, lines 40-45)). The present invention provides for the specific three dimensionally connected pores in the coating that allow specific passage and diffusion of "water molecules, hydroxyl ions, sodium ions or potassium ions" (claim 1, last two lines), and that this is provided by the specific process of the claimed invention including the introduction of the solution composed mainly of palladium chloride and hydrochloric acid (see page 9, 3rd full paragraph of specification). The cited prior art provides no teaching or suggestion of controlling conditions to provide such porosity.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

2. The Examiner notes that in the amendment of May 17, 2007, "?m" in the specification was changed to " μm ". The Examiner has accepted that correction as it would be clear to one of ordinary skill in the art that this was the correct terminology as particle sizes in the electroless plating of particles are conventionally described in such units (see Wilks column 3, line 45) and the term " μm " was used for measurement in Figure 1 of the present application.
